HOW ARE BUSINESSES BEING AFFECTED?

A guide for public sector employees in the Black Country LEP area on the challenges and the support available

Introduction

Brexit represents a significant amount of change for local businesses. As it stands, businesses are already being impacted by Brexit related uncertainty. When the UK leaves the EU it will represent the biggest fundamental change to the UK's political and trading relationships for a generation. Making sure that businesses know where to go for support when they need it will be critical.

Due to the nature of your role you are frequently coming in to contact with businesses who may have Brexit related queries. The purpose of this document is to help you increase your knowledge of the types of questions businesses may have or the challenges they may be encountering and where to signpost them on to for support. It does not aim to make you a Brexit expert but to equip you with enough knowledge to navigate the local Brexit business support environment and help make sure local businesses are receiving the support they need.

This document has been prepared by the Black Country Chambers of Commerce on behalf of the West Midlands Combined Authority.

What challenges are businesses already experiencing as a result of uncertainty?

Some local businesses are already being impacted by Brexit related uncertainty. Issues being experienced can include:

- Pressure on working capital arising from changing payment terms from suppliers or customers and/or stockpiling activity.
- Attracting investment to their business.
- Attracting and retaining international talent & labour.

BLACK COUNTRY MANUFACTURER (c. £12m per annum turnover)

"Recent World Trade forecasts show that global trade will drop from 5.4% to 3.2%. This is said to be due to an increase in tariffs and barriers in trade of 70%. Confidence in manufacturing is low as many indices are dropping to levels that make it difficult to operate at profitable levels (metal prices etc). Automotive production is down and unlikely to recover soon. The uncertainty around what type of Brexit we are going to have and when we will have it increases the lack of confidence. Investment decisions are being put off consequently.

We are quoting for work in Europe and have been told to reduce the UK content to a minimum so that our Customers minimise their exposure to Brexit. This may mean we cannot take advantage of UKEF's finance schemes which will severely affect our cashflow and mean we cannot fund contracts on existing terms. We have switched from concentrating on Europe to the US and having some success. We are having difficulties getting visas which is restricting our ability to work in the area - as are US Tariffs. Interestingly we are told this is due to the UK being downgraded below the EU due to Brexit.

If we need to get visas to work in Europe this will make sales and work in Europe harder still.

We are nearly 4 months into the financial year and have no capital sales this year. Our turnover is certain to drop and so redundancies are certain to follow.

What questions do businesses have about Brexit?

Depending on their sector, the products or services they sell and the extent to which they engage with international, trade businesses may have a wide range of questions about Brexit and how it could impact them.

At the time of writing, the final outcome of Brexit is unknown. As a result, the Black Country Chamber of Commerce are advising businesses to ensure that they understand and would be able to manage a no deal Brexit scenario - by preparing for the most disruptive outcome they'll be best placed to adapt to whatever Brexit finally brings.

General Brexit Queries

Questions could include:

- How do I know if Brexit could impact my organisation?
- What should my organisation be doing to prepare?
- How can I find information about Brexit that's specifically relevant to my organisation?
- How do I know if my organisations' Brexit preparations are thorough enough?

BLACK COUNTRY MANUFACTURER

"If you make trade harder to do less trade will be done. As a consequence, UK jobs will be lost and individuals incomes, UK PLC tax take will drop and austerity measures will continue. Our Government has a duty to end Brexit uncertainty as soon as possible so that Businesses can begin the process of increasing confidence, trade, jobs and tax take."

Trade Related Brexit Queries

- Will my business have to pay tariffs on imports from/exports to the EU?
- Will my business be able to continue to trade with nations that currently have EU trade deals on the same terms?
- Will my business have to pay VAT on imports from the EU?
- Will my export and import documentation and declarations need to change after Brexit?
- Who will be responsible for paying in the event of any delays/extra costs arising from Brexit – me or my customer/supplier?
- Is there anything I can do to reduce the risk of customs delays in the event of a no-deal Brexit? (e.g. registering for Transitional Simplified Procedures or exploring Authorised Economic Operator Status)
- Should I be exploring new markets for my products/services?
- Should I be looking to establish a presence in another country?
- How can I reduce costs caused by fluctuations in the value of the pound?
- Will there be any new UK standards (e.g. on product safety or labelling) that I should be aware of?

MANUFACTURER
(c. £3m per annum turnover)

We're headquartered in the UK but buy some components from Germany and sell them straight to China without them coming to the UK first. Same with buying in France and selling to Spain. All of our export docs just say "EU origin" at the moment but will we still be able to do this once we leave the EU and have UK rules of origin?

Our main business is importing raw material from the EU and Turkey (where we are benefitting from the EU - Turkey trade agreement with zero tariffs), processing it and then selling it all around the world. Does anyone know for sure if these terms will continue after Brexit?

People & Skills Related Brexit Queries

- Can my business continue to employ EU nationals already working for my organisation?
- What's the EU Settlement Scheme?
- Will my business still be able to recruit new staff directly from the EU?
- Will UK staff still be able to work in the EU post-Brexit?
- Will my employees' professional qualifications still be recognised by the EU?
- Will Brexit affect business trips to and from the EU?

SMALL MANUFACTURER

We manufacture our products at our factory in the West Midlands. We have just started exploring selling internationally and have had some early success in selling to new European customers. As part of our service, our staff travel with the product to install it on site. After Brexit, will our guys still be able to do this? Will they need work permits or special visas?

- Will my organisations' trademarks still be recognised by the EU and UK?
- How will my organisation protect our copyright across the EU?
- Do I need to change the terms of my contracts with EU/other partners in preparation for Brexit?
- Will my organisation still be able to transfer data into or out of the UK post-Brexit?

BLACK COUNTRY CHAMBER MEMBER

“We don't know what documentation is required to export or import goods into or out of UK post Brexit. This will result in delays to our goods, with consequent effect on profitability and cashflow. Will our EU workers leave? If significant numbers go, we are in trouble. There is continuing uncertainty due to lack of clarity.”
